IN A SEWER.

A Colored Man Digs His Way in Order to Escape Jall.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 28,-Albert Williams, a desperate Negro, is probably smothered to death in the long sewer running through the central part of the city or is now groping his way in the darkness and filth trying to find an exit. Williams was arrested Wednestlay night for beating his wife. He was found locked in a trunk with several bed quilts over him and was half smothered when the officers pulled him out. After being locked up in the station house about midnight he tore away some of the flooring and dug through two feet of masonry until he reached the sewer, which is a half mile in length without an opening. It is filled with the filth and trash of the city. It is about three feet in diameter. Williams was missed an hour later and officers immediately sent to either end of the sewer to watch for
